TEN CENTS A WEEK

LAW EAGER FOR TRIAL TO BEGIN

Was Completed, When Court Adjourned Until Monday.

ARMY OF WITNESSES

Seen Summoned, Many of Whom Never Heard in the Trial. Prisoner Expressed Satisfaction of Defense and Believes He Will Win.

New York, Feb. 2.—At last the jury in the trial of Harry Thaw for the murder of Edward White is completed, and the prospects are good that the taking of testimony will begin on Monday, to which day court has adjourned.

There was some talk that there might be a further weeding out of jurors, but Attorney Jerome said he did not expect any further delay. It is expected that Jerome will put on three or four witnesses, and that one or two of them, probably the policeman whom Thaw surrendered, and the agent of the Tenderloin station, who took Thaw's pedigree, will testify to Thaw's apparent sanity.

Mr. Hartridge has summoned over a dozen witnesses. Many of these may never be heard of in the trial.

Thaw expressed satisfaction when the jury box was filled, saying: "I am glad that part of the business is over." He is apparently keen for the real trial to begin. He expects to go free as the result of the trial, and this accounts for his eagerness for the testimony to begin.

While none of the plans of the defense have been divulged, it is the generally accepted belief that Thaw will make the witness stand in his own defense.

A City of Caravans.

The first of November is the official beginning of winter in Paris. Then, no matter what the temperature be, fires are lit in the schools and public buildings, and the janitor turns on the heat of the sad race of flat dwellers. Then the smaller shows which cannot pay for a "stand" in the streets or squares go into winter quarters. Where? I found a city of them out in the waste lands by the great gate of Montrouge. In an empty lot were scores of caravans drawn up behind the wooden palisades, ranged so as to form veritable streets, named after this showman or that. Dogs, chickens, rabbits, children, swarmed everywhere. Corkscrews of smoke rose from the chimneys of the wagons. Gaudy rags were drying on lines. Will you look in one of the vans? It has two rooms. In one are the beds. The other is for eating. On all sides the walls are lined with closets and drawers. A little stove glows near the door. Here they are born, here they live and die, the eternal dynasties of the voyagers.—Vance Thompson in Outing Magazine.

The Truly Beautiful.

There is, it has been said, no fixed standard of art criticism. What is lauded today is discarded tomorrow, and even connoisseurs disagree bewilderingly; but, glancing back over the ages, it will be found that the discord has been caused by technical divergence and that in every land and among all peoples the truly beautiful has been generally recognized and correctly esteemed. No one questions to-day the beauty of the Greek temple or the charm of the Babylonian pottery. It does not require trained eyes to recognize the merit of an oriental flower painting or to find delight in one of Whistler's nocturnes. The fundamentals in each instance are the same—rhythmical line, fair proportions and harmonious coloring. We have to be led oftentimes up the ascent of art, and there is much discussion concerning the byways, but once on the height all discussion ends, and we no longer need a guide.—Leila Mechlin in Century.

Related Testimonials.

If the testimonials of love and faith on our tombstones were uttered in our daily life, bow often would they have helped us over the briery fields and rocky roads of existence!—Baltimore American.

Speaking of signs, when you wake up and find a burglar in the house it is a sign that unexpected company has arrived.—Pittsburg Gazette Times.

ARMY UNIFORMS.

Officers Must Spend $1,000 to Start and Then Keep It Up.

How would you like to be forced to invest $1,000 for clothing whether you had the money or wanted to or not?

This is what an army officer holding a commission in Uncle Sam's service has to do much oftener than he likes. If he does not happen to have the ready cash (and many of them do not have it) he is forced by army regulations to buy enough clothes on credit to tog out fifteen men.

It is an army secret, but some of the lieutenants, fresh from West Point two years ago, have only recently finished paying for their first $1,000 worth of clothes. Their salvation is that their credit is good with the tailors who cater to the army officers' trade. All the uniforms are tailor made. It is nothing out of the ordinary for an army officer to be paying for his clothes on the installment plan. That is one part of the army officer's life that will probably not appear romantic—especially to the women.

But the rigid requirements make it necessary for the officer to spend a large sum of money for his clothes or suffer a penalty for not having them.

The pay of a second lieutenant is $1,040 a year. One of the first things he has to do on receiving his commission is to fit himself with clothes to meet the required regulations. In the first place, he has to have service uniforms of olive drab and khaki for summer and winter wear. There must be one kind of service while mounted and another kind while dismounted.

It requires not less than four khaki uniforms of wash goods for field service. There are trousers for use while dismounted and the riding breeches. With the service uniform go the boots, shoes, pigskin leggings, cap, service hat, saddle blanket to match uniform, leather equipment and a few other things. Then there are dress uniforms for dismounted service, with black boots and black shoes, cap, cape, overcoat, hat and helmet.

There must be two sets for summer and two sets for winter of all the different uniforms. Then come the official dress uniforms for mounted and dismounted service. With the official dress go gold shoulder knots and a belt of gold costing about $50, cap, hat, patent leather shoes and boots. Next are the white shoes and cap. Then comes the social full dress uniform for evening wear, with hat, patent leather boots and shoes, purely for social affairs.

These are not all. There must be a mess jacket, raincoat of a certain color and flannel shirts. The officers have to furnish their own horses, saddles and blankets. They have to pay their own board and for fuel and lights. They even have to buy the furnishings for their quarters. Uncle Sam only furnishes the shelter and the commission. Even the officers' trunks have to be of a regulation size. All these things mean an investment of about $2,000 at least to begin with. This is more than the first year's salary, and expenses never stop.—Columbus Dispatch.

The Ghost of Trichinopoly.

The ghost of Trichinopoly may be seen on most nights between the hours of 11 and 2 on the Tennur road. She is a most beautiful creature who walks out of the river with her clothes all wet, water dripping from her long silken tresses, and she carries in her right hand—no, not a piece of soap or an antiquated toothbrush—merely a brass lotah. If any person attempts to approach her she merely points the forefinger of her left hand at him, and he dies! The ghost was originally one of the temple dancing girls famous all over the town for her striking beauty. The temple authorities raised objections to her bathing there and ordered her to creep out quietly at 11 every night and bathe in the river at Tennur, where no one would see her. This she did for some time, but another temple girl gave away the secret, with the result that the next night when bathing she heard the tramp of many feet and on rushing out to see what was the matter was accidentally knocked into the river and drowned by the crowd of men rushing to the riverside to see her.—Madras (India) Mail.

His Point of View.

"I wonder what the poet meant when he said 'blessings brighten as they take their flight,'" remarked the curious man.

"Perhaps he meant single blessedness," replied the man who was unhappily married.—Philadelphia Press.

EXTRA SESSION OF CONGRESS FEARED

Committee May Not Complete P. O. Appropriation Measure.

LEAVES DEPARTMENT BROKE

If Congress Should Adjourn Without Passing Postoffice Bill, as Appropriation Will Be Exhausted, With No Money to Pay Common Carriers.

Washington, Feb. 2.—An extra session of Congress to complete the passage of the annual appropriation bills may be necessary. The prospect of such an emergency was made apparent when it became known that the postoffice appropriation measure, carrying $200,000,000, is likely to keep the committee having it in charge occupied until almost the end of the present session. Chairman Overstreet, of the House committee on postoffices and post roads, is fearful that an extra session may have to be called to get the bill out of the way.

If Congress adjourns without passing the postoffice bill, it means that there will be no money available to run the postal service of the government after June 30th. The postal officials cannot anticipate a future appropriation and go ahead on the government's credit. The money must be provided by act of Congress, based on the department's estimates for the ensuing year. Otherwise not a clerk could be paid nor a cent given to any common carrier for transporting the mails. The business of the country would be paralyzed unless Congress, especially called to act, provided the millions of funds necessary to keep things in motion.

The Faithful Little Guide.

Oftentimes I have seen a tall ship glide by against the tide as if drawn by some invisible towline with a hundred strong arms pulling it. Her sails hung unfilled; her streamers were drooping; she had neither side wheel nor stern wheel. Still she moved on stately in serene triumph, as if with her own life. But I knew that on the other side of the ship, hidden beneath the great bulk that swam so majestically, there was a little toiling steam tug with a heart of fire and arms of iron that was hugging it close and dragging it bravely on, and I knew that if the little steam tug untwined her arms and left the tall ship it would wallow and roll about and drift hither and thither and go off with reflux tide, no man knows whither. And so I have known more than one genius, high decked, full freighted, wide sailed, gay pennoned, that but for the bare tolling arms and brave, warm-beating heart of the faithful little wife that nestled close to him so that no wind or wave could part them would soon have gone down stream and been heard of no more.—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

A Fatal Sleep.

Hugh Miller, the Scottish geologist and writer, was one of the most illustrious of sleepwalkers. Miller, who had been addicted to somnambulism in his youth, found his restlessness return while he was engaged upon his "Testimony of the Rocks." He used to wake in the morning feeling, as he said, as if he had been abroad in the night wind, dragged by some invisible power and ridden by witches. On the night of his death he slept alone. In the morning they found him stretched dead on the floor with a bullet through his breast. He had written a note to his wife: "My brain burns. I must have walked, and a fearful dream rises upon me. I cannot bear the horrible thought. My brain burns as the recollection grows." So intense had been the poor fellow's anguish that to make certain his end he had torn back shirt and vest and placed the muzzle of the pistol to his naked flesh.—St. James' Gazette.

Her Sponge Cake.

A young bride, after serving to her husband a Sunday dinner that was so-so, said as the mince pie was brought on, "I intended, dear, to have some sponge cake, too, but it has been a total failure." "How was that?" the husband asked in a disappointed tone, for he was fond of sponge cake. "The druggist," she explained, "sent me the wrong kind of sponges."

IBSEN'S PARADOX.

And the Intimate Relation of Science to Society.

Ibsen, my great compatriot, has in one of his works formulated the paradox that the man is strongest who stands most alone. There is certainly some truth in this—nay, there is much truth in it so far as science is concerned. The man who in the search for truth goes his way independently of other men and of other considerations is certainly the man who is apt to find the greatest and most valuable truth. On the other hand, it is also true that science more than most other things in life depends on co-operation, on the help of one's fellow beings, and this becomes more and more true every day. Many people are apt to forget what science actually is and what they owe to science, for it is through science that modern society actually exists, and the development of society as it is today would be impossible if science were eliminated. Humanity is growing; but, if science and the means created by science are not growing, humanity will have to look forward to a very miserable future. Therefore the nation that wishes to be cared for must support science and those who carry on scientific work. Science will live her own life and has done so ever since the days when Prometheus made his fatal expedition to the gods and stole the fire which is more or less burning in every one of us and cannot be extinguished. There is something sublime in this everlasting fire of science. Generation after generation disappears. The individual is nothing, but always "watchful in the tower man shall remain in sleepless contemplation."—Dr. Nansen.

THE HUMAN THROAT.

It Has a Sort of Little Brain That Controls Its Actions.

Did you know that the throat has a brain of its own? Few people are aware of it, but it's a fact. There is a small ganglia which exercises direct control of the muscles of the throat and acts as its brain. Of course it is subservient to the genuine brain, but at the same time does a good deal of independent thinking for itself. It is very timid and suspicious of any strange objects that come near the throat.

For this reason it is very difficult for a physician to operate on the throat. Before anything can be done in this direction it is necessary for the operator to gain the confidence of the little brain that dominates it. It frequently takes weeks before this confidence can be secured, and until it is secured it is impossible to perform an operation.

Woe to the man who attempts rough treatment to the throat before gaining the little brain's confidence. His operations will be resented with violent paroxysms, first of the throat, then of the diaphragm, and, if the operator still persists, the patient will be thrown into convulsions. Still more curious is the fact that this little brain has a memory, and if once frightened in this way it is almost impossible to ever gain its confidence, no matter how gentle the operator may be.

Historical Accuracy.

Perish the thought that the novelist or playwright should be tied down to historical accuracy! Lady Dorothy Neville quotes an amusing correspondence between Bulwer Lytton and her brother:

My Dear Walpole—Here I am at Bath—bored to death. I am thinking of writing a play about your great ancestor, Sir Robert. Had he not a sister Lucy, and did she not marry a Jacobite?

My brother promptly replied:

My Dear Lytton—I care little for my family and still less for Sir Robert, but I know that he never had a sister Lucy, so she could not have married a Jacobite.

However, this mattered little to Lord Lytton, for his answer ran:

My Dear Walpole—You are too late! Sir Robert had a sister Lucy, and she did marry a Jacobite.

So, in defiance of history, the play "Walpole" came to be written.

"Good advice," replied Leonidas promptly. "He had any number of wives."—Washington Star.

OCEAN S. S. CO. MAY BE ABSORBED

Interesting Rumors That Morse Interests May Have Absorbed It.

REPORT NOT YET VERIFIED

But Indications Point Strongly to Truth of the Story—Apparent Effort of Morse Interests to Secure Control of All Coastwise Lines.

Brunswick, Ga., Feb. 2.—The recent visit of officials of the Ocean Steamship Company to this city, coupled with the recent charter of the steamship City of Birmingham of that line by the Mallory Line for its New York-Brunswick service, has given rise to a report that the Morse combination has succeeded in getting control of the Ocean Steamship Company, or at least has brought about a "community of interests."

It is believed in railroad circles that the chartering of the City of Birmingham is the first step towards a twice-a-week, or possibly a tri-weekly service, between this port and New York. It is generally understood that the Southern, which has been closely watching the development of the Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic system, has been quietly preparing to meet this competition with an equally strong combination, and this would naturally be through its arrangement with the Mallory and Clyde steamships now in the Morse pool.

The Fractured Leg.

A visitor was going through the children's surgical ward of one of the city hospitals when he spied a little fellow with his legs in the air and his weight resting on his head and shoulders. Going closer, he saw that the boy's feet were fastened with ropes which passed through a pulley above. At the other ends of the ropes were weights, just heavy enough to hold the boy's legs in the air without lifting him entirely off the bed.

"What's all that about?" asked the visitor. "Doesn't it hurt him?"

"Not at all," answered the physician who was accompanying. "He doesn't look unhappy, does he? That's the way we always handle fractures of the leg with a child. Otherwise the youngsters squirm around so that they work the splints loose. Only one of this boy's legs is injured, but they are both swung in the air for his greater comfort."—New York Post.

Sorrows of a Humorist.

"This thing of being a humorist is about the saddest thing I know," sighed Simeon Ford. "An ordinary person can have his moods and humors as he pleases, but I must always be on the job. I am constantly being invited out, not because I'm liked for myself alone or because of my manly beauty, but because I am expected to entertain the assemblage. The rest of the company may be as dull as dishwater, but if I do not shake up the gathering with a few jokes the hostess glares at me and really feels resentful. I may be sunk in the slough of despond, but just as soon as I take my seat all lean forward and eye me expectantly. My son, never get a reputation for being funny. It is the most mournful thing on earth."—New York Press.

Teeth of Chambermaids.

Have you ever noticed that every chambermaid who has been taking care of the hay and feathers for a number of years is usually devoid of a few teeth of the upper "case"? Veteran chambermaids can seldom show a full set of upper teeth. The absence of the ivory is explained as follows by a downtown dentist: "The teeth of the maids which I replace with artificial ones are pillowcase teeth. They are constantly used in putting on pillowcases and are not strong enough to stand the strain. Their work is a constant wear and tear on the teeth."—Pittsburg Dispatch.

MISS FILDES MARRIED.

Former Gainesville Girl Becomes Wife of Rudolph McDavid.

The Jacksonville Metropolis of Friday has the following to say, which will prove of interest to readers of The Sun, as the bride is a well known and popular lady here:

"The residence of the prominent attorney, Mr. Charles Lewis Fildes, corner of Newnan and Church streets, was the scene of a charming wedding on evening when Miss Marguerite Kelley Fildes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lewis Fildes, became Mrs. Rudolph McDavid.

"The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. T. Boone, of the First Christian Church, of which the bride is a member.

"Miss Fildes is the younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fildes, formerly of Gainesville, and a young woman of much personal charm. Mr. McDavid is native of Andersonville, S. C., but now making his home in this city.

"Only the family and a few intimate friends were present at the marriage ceremony. Almost immediately thereafter the happy pair left on the evening train for a visit to the groom's parents at Andersonville.

"Many friends testified to the loving union in which the couple were held in numerous tasteful and useful presents.

"After the 15th inst. Mr. and Mrs. McDavid will be at home to their friends at 2224 St. Johns avenue, Riverside.

Misses Hampton Entertain.

Misses Minna and Catherine Hampton entertained on Friday evening in honor of the visiting young ladies, at the elegant home of their parents, Col. and Mrs. W. W. Hampton, East Church street.

There were in the receiving line Col. and Mrs. Hampton and the Misses Hampton, Mayer of New York, Willingham of Georgia, and Davies of South Carolina.

Progressive whist was the game, and there were eight tables. While everyone participating showed remarkable skill at the game, the honors fell for advancement to Miss Willingham.

Delicious refreshments were served. They consisted of chicken salad, pickles, olives and coffee.

During the evening Miss Mayer favored the guests with some excellent selections on the piano, while Messrs. Wallader and Clyde Graham treated them to some clever vocal solos.

In all, the evening was spent in a most delightful manner, and those present are under obligations to the clever hostesses.

Why Truckers Are Happy.

With the price of lettuce on the local market at ten cents per head, with other vegetables in proportion, it is no wonder that the trucker has on his countenance a smile that he is reluctant to take off. These prices are the highest for the local trade that have been known for a long time, but there seems to be little or no trouble in disposing of the products.

TWENTIETH CENTURY CLUB.

Interesting Meeting Held on Afternoon of Monday, January 28.

On Monday, Jan. 28th, the Twentieth Century Club met at the beautiful home of Mrs. Gracy.

Meeting was called to order with Mrs. Dr. Del in the chair. After the routine business, resolutions of sorrow and regret on the death of Mrs. Clark were read before the Club.

At the close of the business session, Mrs. Lynch took the chair as leader. First on the program was a piano solo by Miss Clara Pound.

The study for the year being England, the roll call was responded to with quotations from books of travel.

A selection on the violins and piano by the Misses Hampton and Richards was very much enjoyed.

Reading by Mrs. Hay on the colleges of England, and the opportunities offered to women.

Miss Mayer, the guest of Miss Catherine Hampton, gave us a most charming piano solo.

Paper, "Random Reminiscences," written by Mrs. Phillips and read by Mrs. W. B. Goodwin, was a gem that we all keenly enjoyed, both the paper and the reading.

Last came a duet by Mrs. Crow and Mrs. Schmidt, which was so much appreciated that the ladies hope soon to have the pleasure of hearing them again.

Delightful refreshments were served, and after thanking Mrs. Gracy for her gracious hospitality the ladies departed well pleased with the afternoon.

REPORTER.

The ladies have prepared an excellent menu for this occasion, and the viands will be temptingly served.

The price of the regular dinner, as selected from the menu herewith printed, will be fifty cents. If a turkey dinner is desired, seventy-five cents.

The following will be the menu:

Chicken Soup	Roast Pork
Roast Beef	Creamed Potatoes
Creamed Rutabagas	Macaroni
Baked Beans	Brown Bread
Celery	Lettuce
Pumpkin Pie	Mince Pie
Coffee.

AN ERROR CORRECTED.

First National Increased Deposits Over $80,000, Instead of $30,000.

A typographical error in figures occurred in the notice calling attention to the increase in business as regards deposits in the First National Bank in Friday's Sun.

The statement related that the deposits had increased more than $30,000 since the last report of the condition of that institution, November 12, 1906, when it should have read more than $80,000.

Even the increase as reported would have been remarkable, but the actual increase is certainly a record-breaker.

Old Ladies' Tea Party.

A party of eleven ladies whose united ages amounted to 780 years were invited Wednesday afternoon to the home of Mrs. W. D. Seigler in honor of her guest, Mrs. Witt, of Gainesville.

The afternoon was pleasantly passed in recounting scenes of pioneer life and other old-time matters, after which delicious refreshments were served. Had you looked in upon these matrons as they chatted gaily together, you would almost feel like disagreeing with the Palmist who said that after the age of three-score and ten, one's life is "labor and sorrow." —Waldo News.

Twentieth Century Club.

THE RICH FOOL AND HIS DESTINY

That Was the Subject of the Sermon at Tabernacle Last Night.

THE PREACHER WAS EARNEST

And Created a Great Impression Upon His Hearers, Who Were Many—Culpeppers Will Hold Services Today, Morning, Afternoon and Night.

One of the greatest sermons of the meeting, one of the most powerful and impressive was the sermon to young men last night by the younger Culpepper. He took for his text the Bible story of the rich fool as recorded in Luke's gospel. He began by saying that the man made only four mistakes, but they were fundamental and decisive. The first mistake was, he left God out of his plans.

The second blunder he made was that he was a materialist. He sought to feed his soul on food for the body, which many men are doing today. The soul must be fed on spiritual things, not on material things.

The third mistake was that he thought his goods belonged to himself. We, ourselves, belong to God, and all that we have is held in trust for Him. Until we have given our hearts and lives to God, we have not fulfilled the purpose for which we were created.

His fourth mistake was that he thought he had a never-ending lease on life.

The sermon was replete with forceful and impressive illustration, driving home and enforcing the great truths presented.

At the conclusion over a hundred came up and asked for prayer, and a great many came forward and gave their names for membership in the churches.

The 10 o'clock services today will be held at the First Methodist Church. The afternoon and evening services will be held at the Tabernacle. The hours for the services at the Tabernacle will be 3 p. m. and 7 p. m.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

Past Week a Strenuous One—Many Pupils Attended Divine Service.

(By Our Special School Reporter.)

Friday closed the first half over the present session.

Capt. McBeath paid a fine compliment to the boys and girls of the High School the other morning, which they all greatly appreciate. His brief talks at chapel exercises are always pleasant and interesting.

Most of the High School pupils and many of the three upper grades of the grammar school have, on request of their parents, been allowed to attend the 10 o'clock church services this week.

Every day this week we have been having examinations from 1 to 3 o'clock in the afternoon, and with this and attending church services two or three times a day, this has been about the most strenuous week of the session.

We were pleased to have as visitors at chapel exercises this week some of our last year's classmates—Addison Pound, Larkin Carter, Bloxham Dell and James Vidal.

We have had some excellent special music this week at chapel exercises: a beautiful piano duet on Monday by Myrtis Dean and Josie Johnston, and a fine piano solo on Friday by Margaret Merchant.

Owing to the fact that our grounds are abundantly supplied with trees, and that it would be folly to put out ornamental shrubs or flowers until our yard is fenced in, Arbor day was not observed. The principal called attention to the fact that Friday was Arbor day at chapel exercises, and we all promised him we would assist him in keeping the yard free from litter the rest of the term.

The Sophomores will take up Botany Monday; and the Freshmen will take up Essentials of Latin as a preparation for going into Caesar at the beginning of next session.

This being examination week, the literary societies did not hold their usual meetings. A joint public session of the Demosthenean and Euclidean societies is being arranged for the near future.

A movement is on foot to organize a High School Glee Club. There is excellent material in the school, and the principal has consented to assist in training the singers.

PILES CURED IN 6 TO 14 DAYS.

PAZO OINTMENT is guaranteed to cure any case of Itching, Blind, Bleeding or Protruding Piles in 6 to 14 days or money refunded. 50c

THE NEWS FROM ARCHER.

Restaurant Changes Hands—Mrs. Hodgson's Death—Notes.

Archer, Feb. 1.—The traveling public will be greatly pleased to know that the hotel and restaurant of W. L. Jackson has been leased to Jos. Van Allen and wife, who have had the house thoroughly overhauled and put in first-class condition—everything new, neat and clean—and will cater to the local as well as the travelers, being near the depot at the railroad crossing, making it very convenient. Mr. Van Allen and wife are much pleased with the fine business they are enjoying. They will make a specialty of quick lunches and meals on short notice.

Mrs. Sarah Hodgson, an aged and long a resident of Archer, passed away on the evening of February 1st, after a long illness. While her death has long been expected it came peacefully. With her children and friends Mother Hodgson leaves to mourn her death two sons, R. B. and Thos. Hodgson, Miss Kittie Hodgson and Mrs. McLain and a large circle of friends. The bereaved have the sympathy of the entire community. Funeral services were held at her late residence at 8 a. m. today, conducted by the Rev. Waddell. The interment was in Evergreen cemetery at Gainesville.

Doctor DePass and family have the sympathy of the community in the death of the Rev. J. P. DePass, uncle of the Doctor, which occurred at Miami on last Thursday evening.

Arbor day was duly celebrated today by pupils of the union school in planting trees and other exercises. Master Hal Taylor, young son of Geo. L. Taylor, was the orator and acquitted himself creditably.

BEWARE OF "DIGESTIVES."

The Only Way to Cure Stomach Disorders is by Strengthening the Digestive Organs.

The ordinary peptic tablet has ruined more stomachs than all other causes combined. While it gives temporary relief, it leaves the digestive system weaker than ever, and the tablets must be continued with increased frequency.

The only way to permanently cure stomach troubles is by strengthening the digestive organs with a Mi-o-na stomach tablet taken before meals. In this way the remedy prepares the stomach for the food and excites the secretion of gastric juices so that, when the food is eaten, the stomach is prepared to digest it.

If Mi-o-na was a mere digestive, it would be taken after eating, so as to mix with the food, but then permanent relief would not be gained.

Mi-o-na stomach tablets are sold only in a neat metal box, convenient for the purse or vest pocket, and cost but 50c. J. W. McCollum & Co. have seen so many cures made by Mi-o-na stomach tablets that they give a guarantee with every box that the money will be refunded if the remedy fails to give satisfaction. You run no risk in using Mi-o-na, for you are sure to be cured at trifling expense, or else your money will be returned.

Florida Life Pays Promptly.

The Florida Life Insurance Company, which is incorporated under the insurance laws of this State as a legal reserve or old line company with an authorized capital of one million dollars, paid its first death claim recently, which for promptness establishes a new record.

On May 30th, 1906, Mr. Irvine McClellan of Madison, Fla., was issued a policy for $1,000 on the 20 payment premium endowment plan, for which he paid $24.90.

On January 6th he was taken with an attack of appendicitis and died on the 11th, and was buried on Saturday, the day following. On Monday, the 14th, his wife was handed a check for $1,000 in settlement of his policy.

There is no doubt but that there is a great future for this company. Its stockholders are among the most successful business and professional men of the State, and through conservative and economical management it is enabled to offer the public "honest insurance at an honest price." The premium rates are much lower than those charged by companies offering so-called "participating policies."

You will do yourself a great injustice not to investigate what this company has to offer.

Information regarding rates and plans will be furnished by addressing W. L. Hill, Special Agent, Gainesville, Fla.

BACKACHE AND DESPONDENCY

Are both symptoms of organic derangement, and nature's warning to women of a trouble which will sooner or later declare itself.

How often do we hear women say, "It seems as though my back would break." Yet they continue to drag along and suffer with aches in the small of the back, pain low down in the side, dragging sensations, nervousness and no ambition.

They do not realize that the back is the main-spring of woman's organism and quickly indicates by aching a diseased condition of the feminine organs or kidneys, and that aches and pains will continue until the cause is removed.

made from native roots and herbs has been for many years the most successful remedy in such cases. No other medicine has such a record of cures of feminine ills.

Miss Lena Nagel, of 117 Morgan St., Buffalo, N. Y., writes:—"I was completely worn out and on the verge of nervous prostration. My back ached all the time. I had dreadful periods of pain, was subject to fits of crying and extreme nervousness, and was always weak and tired. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound completely cured me."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cures Female Complaints, such as Backache, Falling and Displacements, and all Organic Diseases. Dissolves and expels Tumors at an early stage. It strengthens and tones the Stomach. Cures Headache and indigestion and invigorates the whole feminine system.

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation to Women

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free.

Don't fawn—that's despicable.

Self-destruction is inherent in every lie.
Don't stand sponsor for the opinions of others.

Every man ought to be bigger than the office.

How long will the world continue to sacrifice her saviors!

No one is great until he feels the pang of a crucifixion.

Somebody has said that hate is love turned wrong-side out.

It takes more force to start a thing than it does to keep it going.

There are but few central suns—the most of us are only satellites.

Don't trade a morsel of love for a whole wagon-load of garbage. Some of us have already done that to our sorrow.

Just as long as society makes it to our interest to be what we are not, that long will we court a hypocrisy that kills.

ALMANACH DE GOTHA.

History of This Old and World Famous Institution.

The Almanach de Gotha is more than an almanac. It is an institution. Bravely arrayed in red and gold, it lies on the table of every diplomatist, is in constant request in the newspaper offices of all countries and makes a wider and more international appeal than any other annual of reference in the world. It is to Europe what Burke and DeBrett and the other peerages are to the British Isles, and it is also the lineal ancestor and model of such topical encyclopedias as our Whittaker, our Hazell and our Statesman's Yearbook. A political and social history of the world for the last 150 years could be written from its back numbers if these were readily accessible to students. But they are not. The Almanach de Gotha began to appear in 1763, but the purchasers did not file it for reference. The earliest numbers in the British museum are those for 1774 and 1783, and a complete set can be consulted nowhere except in the editorial office in Friedrich's Allee in the little Thuringian capital. Probably not one in ten thousand of those who currently use the almanac has any knowledge of its interesting history.

It had of course its predecessors. The bibliographies of almanacs are ponderous tomes, and the middle of the eighteenth century was the golden age of this kind of literature. In Paris alone as many as seventy-three almanacs were published in the year 1760. Including a royal almanac, an almanac for merchants, an almanac for Freemasons, an almanac of beasts, an almanac of badinage, etc. The city of Gotha itself had its own almanac from a still earlier date in the shape of an "Improved Gotha genealogical and writing calendar," the origin of which is lost in the mist of antiquity, though a copy dated 1740 survives.—Francis Gribble in Scribner's.

A FEAT OF MEMORY.

Zangwill's Knowledge of the Famous Trials of History.

As an indication of the quality of Zangwill's mental processes I may relate an incident that occurred while we were producing "The Children of the Ghetto." Mr. Zangwill was seated in my office, and we were going over some of the details of the play. It was the day that Labor, intimately connected with the Dreyfus case in Paris, was assassinated. Knowing that Zangwill had intimate knowledge of the case, a New York newspaper sent a representative up to see him. The reporter entered and after conveying the news said:

"Mr. Zangwill, we want from you a history of all the famous trials you can call to mind for our paper."

"Indeed?" said Mr. Zangwill. "I think I can prepare that for you. Come to see me in three or four days, and I will have it ready."

"We want it now," objected the newspaper man. "We want to print it in our paper tomorrow morning."

"But you surely don't expect me to quote you dates and facts out of my mind on the spur of the moment, do you?" asked Mr. Zangwill in astonishment. "Such a thing is out of reason."

"I'm sorry, but it's the only way we can make use of it," replied the newspaper man firmly. Mr. Zangwill thought a moment and then asked if he could have my stenographer for a short time. He was called in, and Zangwill dictated to him then and there a two column resume of all the famous trials of history, from Savonarola down, and quoted every important date and historical feature connected with each.—From "Israel Zangwill," by George C. Tyler, in Bohemian.

S.S.S. PURIFIES THE BLOOD

As every part of the body is dependent on the blood for nourishment and strength, it is necessary that this vital fluid be kept free from germs, impurities and poisons. As long as it remains uncontaminated we are fortified against disease and health is assured; but any humor or impurity acts injuriously on the system and affects the general health, or culminates in some special blood disease. Pustular eruptions, pimples, rashes and the different skin affections show that the blood is in a feverish and diseased condition as a result of too much acid, or the presence of some irritating humor. Sores and Ulcers are the result of morbid, unhealthy matter in the blood, and Rheumatism, Catarrh, Scrofula, Contagious Blood Poison, etc., are all deep-seated blood diseases that continue to grow worse as long as the impurity or poison remains in the circulation. Some persons are born with an hereditary taint in the blood and we see the effect manifested in various ways. The skin has a pallid, waxy appearance, the eyes are weak, glands in the neck often enlarged and usually the body is not fully developed or strong, because it has always been fed on weak, impure blood. In all blood troubles S. S. S. has proved itself a perfect remedy. It goes down into the circulation and removes all poisons, humors, waste or foreign matter, and makes this stream of life pure and health-sustaining. Nothing reaches inherited blood troubles like S. S. S.; it removes every particle of taint, purifies and strengthens the weak, deteriorated blood, supplies it with the healthful properties it needs and establishes the foundation for good health. Rheumatism, Catarrh, Scrofula, Sores and Ulcers, Skin Diseases, Contagious Blood Poison and all blood diseases and disorders are cured permanently by S. S. S. It is made entirely of roots, herbs and barks, and is the King of all blood purifiers. Book on the blood and any medical advice desired sent free.

WHAT MIGHT HAVE BEEN.

The Confederates' Lost Opportunity After Ball Run.

The enemy were routed. Jackson saw their demoralization and felt that if rapidly followed up it would spread and might involve the capital itself. And every soldier should have seen in it at least a good chance to cut off and capture many thousands of fugitives retreating by long and round-about roads.

There was little effort worthy of the name even to do this. Our small bodies of cavalry did their best and captured about as many prisoners as they could handle. In all 871 unwounded were taken. But to fully improve such an opportunity not a moment should have been lost. At the occurrence of the panic all the troops best situated to cut the line of retreat should have been put in motion. Not only staff officers, but generals themselves, should have followed up to inspire and urge pursuit. The motto of our army here would seem to have been, "Build a bridge of gold for a flying enemy."

Jackson's offer to take Washington city the next morning with 5,000 men had been made to the president as he arrived upon the field, probably about 5 o'clock. It was not sunset until 7:15, and there was a nearly full moon. But the president himself and both generals spent these precious hours in riding over the field where the conflict had taken place. Doubtless it was an interesting study, the dead and badly wounded of both sides being mostly where they had fallen, but it was not war to pause at that moment to consider it. One of the generals, Beauregard, for instance, should have crossed Bull Run at Ball's ford or Stone bridge with all the troops in that vicinity and should have pushed the pursuit all night. Johnston should have galloped rapidly back to Mitchell's ford and have marched thence on Centerville, with Bonham, Longstreet and Jones, who had not been engaged. No hard fighting would have been needed. A threat upon either flank would doubtless have been sufficient, and when once a retreat from Centerville was started even blank volleys fired behind it would have soon converted it into a panic.—General E. P. Alexander in Scribner's.

A German Welcome Home.

In Germany it is the custom to make much of the return of any members of the family even after a short absence. Should the house or flat have been shut up and only put in order for the returning owners by a humble charwoman she will never be so negligent of a kindly custom as to omit decorating the front door with greenery and the word "Welcome" in large letters. An American woman who happened to be staying in a German parsonage when the head of the house returned from Marienbad, where he had been "making the cure," says that the occasion was like the return of a much loved prodigal or a conquering hero from a far country. For days beforehand the "frau pastor" and her daughter were busy making preparations, and the two rosy cheeked servants helped with right good will. The fattened calf, or its German equivalent, was killed, and not only the front door, but every door opening from the entrance hall, was garlanded. A little later the student son returned from Berlin for his vacation, and again feasting and garlanded doorways were the order of the day.—New York Tribune.

Wear Wool in Camp.

In camp for true comfort your underwear should be of wool. I know that a great deal has been printed against it, and a great many hygienic principles are invoked to prove that linen, cotton or silk is better, but experience with all of them merely leads back to the starting point. If one were certain never to sweat freely and never to get wet, the theories might hold, but once let linen or cotton or silk undergarments get thoroughly moistened and the first chilly wind is your undoing. You will shiver and shake before the hottest fire, and nothing short of a complete change and a rubdown will do you any good. Now, of course, in the wilderness you expect to undergo extremes of temperature and occasionally to pass unprotected through a rainstorm or a stream. Then you will discover that wool dries quickly; that even when damp it warms comfortably to the body. I have waded all day in early spring freshet water with no positive discomfort except for the cold ring around my legs which marked the surface of the water.—From Stewart E. White's "Camp Equipment," in Outing Magazine.

A NEED, JUST LIKE SLEEP.

Is the Instinct of Natural Death Born in Manhood?

The most convincing fact in proof of the existence in man of an instinct of natural death seems to me that reported by Toxarsky in relation to an old woman. In the lifetime of Toxarsky I begged an acquaintance of his to obtain for me the details of this most interesting case, of which I had found but an incomplete statement. Toxarsky unfortunately could add nothing to what he had published in his article. I believe, however, that I have found the source from which his instance had been taken.

In his book upon the physiology of taste, which had its day of celebrity, Brillat-Savarin relates the following: "I had a great-aunt, ninety-three years old, who was dying. Although for some time confined to her bed, she had retained all her faculties, and her condition was only betrayed by her loss of appetite and the weakening of her voice. She had always shown a fondness for me, and I was near her bed, affectionately ready to wait on her, which did not prevent my watching her with the philosophical eye I have ever had for the things and events surrounding me. 'Are you there, nephew?' she asked, in a scarcely audible voice. 'Yes, aunt; I am here at your service, and I think you would do well to take a little good old wine.' 'Give, mon ami. One can always swallow liquid,' I hastened. Raising her gently, I made her take half a glass of my best wine. She brightened for a moment and, looking at me with eyes which had once been very fine, 'Thank you,' she said, 'for this last favor. If ever you reach my age you will find that death becomes a need, just like sleep.'

"These were her last words. Half an hour later she had fallen asleep forever. We unmistakably have here an instance of the instinct of natural death. The instinct was shown at a relatively early age in a person who had retained all her intellectual faculties."—Professor Elie Metchnikoff in Harper's.

Men Past Sixty in Danger.

More than half mankind over sixty years of age suffer from kidney and bladder disorders, usually enlargement of prostate gland. This is both painful and dangerous, and Foley's Kidney Cure should be taken at the first sign of danger, as it corrects irregularities and has cured many old men of this disease. Mr. Rodney Rurnett, Rock Port, Mo., writes: "I suffered with enlarged prostate gland and kidney trouble for years and after taking two bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure I feel better than I have for twenty years, although I am now 91 years old." J. W. McCollum & Co.

A Painter's Genius.

It is told of Leonardo da Vinci that, while still a pupil, before his genius burst into brilliancy, he received a special inspiration in this way: His old and famous master, because of his growing infirmities of age, felt obliged to give up his own work, and one day bade Da Vinci finish for him a picture which he had begun. The young man had such reverence for his master's skill that he shrank from the task. The old artist, however, would not accept any excuse, but persisted in his command, saying simply, "Do your best." Da Vinci at last tremblingly seized the brush and, kneeling before the easel, said the following prayer: "It is for the sake of my beloved master that I implore skill and power for this undertaking." As he proceeded his hand grew steady, his eye awoke with slumbering genius. He forgot himself and was filled with enthusiasm for his work. When the painting was finished the old master was carried into the studio to pass judgment on the result. His eyes rested on a triumph of art. Throwing his arms around the young artist, he exclaimed, "My son, I paint no more."

UNPROFITABLE FEEDING

Intelligent stock raisers know that a certain amount of feed is necessary to keep an animal alive. They might feed that amount as long as it lives, and it would never gain a pound.

There is no profit in that kind of feeding. The kind that pays is the kind that builds flesh rapidly. If it takes twenty pounds of food each day to keep a sheep alive, twenty-five pounds a day will make it gain flesh. It's the extra five that brings the profit. The first five pounds amounts to nothing, nor does the second or third or fourth five pounds.

It's the same way with advertising. You have to do a certain amount to overcome the resistance of the public.

You have to do a certain amount of advertising to make them wake up to the fact that you are in business at all. You have to pay a certain amount to keep your advertising alive. What you pay above that amount brings profit.

Some advertisers fail because they do not use enough space. They use barely enough or sometimes not quite enough to make the advertising self sustaining. A little bit more would make it profitable. It is better to advertise a little too much than not quite enough.—Charles Austin Bates.

To Cure a Bad Habit.

A way to cure a bad habit is thus explained by the Rev. Samuel McComb in the New York World: If you have a habit you wish to get rid of put your mind upon it after going to bed. Resolve to discard that habit at the moment you are lapsing from semiconsciousness into complete unconsciousness. Repeat the operation several nights, several weeks if necessary, and cure will follow, provided that the day after the first night the experiment is started you obey the impulse that will come on you to avoid the accustomed habit.

Common Colds Are the Cause of Many Serious Diseases.

Physicians who have gained a national reputation as analysts of the cause of various diseases, claim that if catching cold could be avoided a long list of dangerous ailments would never be heard of. Everyone knows that pneumonia and consumption originate from a cold, and chronic catarrh, bronchitis, and all throat and lung troubles are aggravated and rendered more serious by each fresh attack. Do not risk your life or take chances when you have a cold. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy will cure it before these diseases develop. This remedy contains no opium, morphine or other harmful drug and has thirty years of reputation back of it, gained by its cures under every condition. For sale by all druggists.

The Two "Dark Days."

There are two "dark days" mentioned in the annals of New England. The first occurred on Oct. 21, 1716, when it suddenly became so dark soon after noon that the people were forced to use artificial lights to do their ordinary work. This strange condition of the atmosphere lasted about three and a half hours. Again, on May 19, 1780, there was a remarkable darkening of the atmosphere, but the phenomenon did not come on so suddenly as that upon the earlier date. The darkness in this latter instance began between 10 and 11 o'clock on the morning of the day named and lasted throughout the day. The darkness extended from the northeastern part of New England westward as far as Albany and southward to Pennsylvania. The most intense and prolonged darkness, however, was confined to Massachusetts, more especially to the seaboard. It is said to have come from the southwest, but there is no mention of it made in the history of Ohio or the Virginias. The exact cause still remains one of the unexplained mysteries.

Too Deep.

The story is told of a lank, disconsolate looking farmer who one day during the progress of a political meeting in Cooper Institute stood on the steps with the air of one who has been surfeited with a feast of some sort.

"Do you know who's talking in there now?" demanded a stranger briskly, pausing for a moment beside the disconsolate farmer, "or are you just going in?"

"No, sir. I've just come out," said the farmer decidedly. "Mr. Evarts is talking in there."

"What about?" asked the stranger. "Well, he didn't say," the farmer answered, passing a knotted hand across his forehead.
